

THE WORLD IN 1941: Axis Burns The Candle At Both Ends

JAPAN'S INFAMOUS ATTACK

THE Japanese Empire, deficient in raw materials, moved southward into wealth and strategic Indo-China last July under concessions wrong from France. The democracies protested, clamped down iron-bound economic restrictions Japan threatened war but meanwhile conducted negotiations with the United States for permanent peace. Under this mask of honorable intention, she sent forces into the Pacific. On Dec. 7 they struck at American outposts without warning, launching a war which, at the year's end, brought Nipponese invasion of the Philippines, the Indies, Thailand, and British Malaya.

AGAINST UNFLINCHING FOE

AMERICA began the most thunderous year in her history by becoming "arsenal of the democracies." She enacted, in March, a lend-lease program providing billions of dollars in war supplies for the Allies. The U.S. navy aided delivery at first by scouting Axis vessels but eventually was forced to convey the supplies under "shoot-on-sight" orders. Meanwhile, the nation kept its unflinching attitude toward new aggression, imposing stern sanctions against Japan but consenting to negotiations for a permanent accord. While these were continuing the Asiatic nation attacked Pearl Harbor, drawing America into the war.

IS TUNED TO AXIS RETREAT

GERMANY hailed brilliant successes during the greater part of eventful 1941, then wound up by examining serious defeats and wondering if they were handwriting on the wall. Lightning campaigns nullified British gains in Africa and acquired the Balkans and Crete during the spring; the invasion of Russia began in June and rolled steadily toward success till late in the year. Then the tide turned. Britain struck with overwhelming force in Africa, and the stinging winter in Russia began to exact its toll. When the Soviet's big counter-offensive came, soldiers of Germany were forced into their greatest withdrawal of the war.

FROM BRITISH, RUSSIAN BLOWS

BRITAIN and Russia, battling a common foe, tasted defeat in 1941 yet wound up the year on a note of victory. Invaded from Arctic to Black Sea, the Soviet fought Axis hordes gamely, exacting a tremendous toll while retreating toward Leningrad, Moscow, and across the Ukraine. In December, when the Axis war machine had spent itself, Russia started to advance. Britain, after taking over Syria, Iraq and Iran, put Axis forces to rout in the third stage of an African campaign but saw her empire gravely threatened in the Far East. Japan, waging a great offensive, was knocking at the very doors of Singapore when the year drew to a close.

SIDELIGHTS OF WAR MAKE HISTORY, TOO

FIRST FOR DEFENSE AND THEN for war, America mobilized money as never before. A 70-billion-dollar outlay jumped to a 150-billion-dollar war program almost overnight.

ENGLAND, INURED TO MYSTERY "thrillers," found Rudolf Hess, the No. 3 Nazi, descending by parachute one spring evening. Reason for his flight was withheld from the public.

ABOARD A BATTLESHIP, Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt had an epochal meeting in August. Late in December England's war boss bobbed up in Washington.

LABOR AND THE BOSSES WRAN-gled for eleven months of the year, forcing Uncle Sam to use troops in settling disputes. Then came the war and virtual 100 per cent accord.

IT ALSO WAS A YEAR IN WHICH prices boomed, although they stayed under '29. Ceilings were put on many products and the word "inflation" crept back into conversations.

WHOEVER TRIED TO BUY silk stockings, an aluminum pan, or a set of tires, found out first hand about priorities. Strategic products were held or limited to military use.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP)—The colonial office announced today that Japanese forces "recently have been operating in the northern Gilbert Islands," roughly midway between Australia and Hawaii.

The announcement expressed fears that European residents of the little chain of 16 coral atoll islands might have been taken prisoner.

An Entangling Alliance

At the Washington conference of 1921-22, the United States, Britain and Japan agreed to not fortify bases in the Pacific. Britain undertaking specifically to not create a first-class naval base at Hong Kong. To this is due the failure to transform Hong Kong into a fortress capable of prolonged defence, as to the failure of the United States to create similar strongholds in the Philippines, the Hawaiian group and elsewhere. Two of the main reasons for their pledges, and are now paying for having kept them.

That Japan also kept its pledge is at best doubtful. That support is forbidden by the freedom with which it has repudiated or openly broken every other treaty with the United States to conquer during the last ten years. If they have not studied Japan and its island possessions with defence bases of the most formidable strength, it is because the war-makers never contemplated having to fight a defensive war, but depending to be always on the advance.

In inflicting its Pacific possessions the United States is at the same disadvantage as Japan. It has kept faith with the treaty-breakers at Tokyo.

What We Fight For

In his Christmas message, Pope Pius laid down certain basic principles as forming the framework on which the international order should be based. If this war is to end wars, or if there is to be relief from the constant menace of another world war, these principles must be followed.

There must be the Pontiff stated: no more aggression; no oppression of minorities; no attempt on the part of nations to monopolize wealth; no armaments races; no persecution directed against religious sects or churches. Stated in positive terms, there must be a progressive limitation of armaments, the observance of treaties, freedom and equality of rights for all peoples.

This fairly indicates the things for which the democratic countries are fighting, and explains the aims of the methods and the aims of the dictators. It is the Atlantic Charter in other words. There is not one proposition in the last which Hitler or Mussolini have not violated, deliberately and as a matter of policy. Should they win, whatever kind of world they establish will not be on this pattern, but of exactly contradictory type. Aggression, oppression, monopoly, armament, persecution, treaty-breaking, enslavement of nations and the torture of individuals—these are the "principles" the dictators have adopted, and which they intend to codify into the law of nations.

Another anti-Catholic barrage from Goebbels will be in order—and perhaps a "me too" echo from Gayda.

Hong Kong lost, there now must be expected still more furious fighting in the Philippines and Malaya. A Japanese army estimated at 45,000 men, with hundreds of airplanes and submarines, were employed in the capture of Hong Kong. While they remain in Allied hands, the lines of communication from Japan to the Dutch East Indies are flanked, and these are concentration points for reinforcements.

Allied air, sea and land forces. Japan has ample reserves of men, planes and ships, but the fewer points of attack, the more difficult the task of the Allied forces. The latter—rather than the former—seems likely to be the scene of the heaviest immediate fighting, and to prevent the landing of more United States troops and because the capture of the islands would cut off the enemy's supply lines of the more dangerous threat.

General MacArthur and the forces under his command have been fighting on many fronts, but against terrible odds, and these are likely to be increased now that Hong Kong no longer is a point of attack.

The Gulf Islands

In seizing the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, the Free French forces did the insubstantial thing, but did it in an unfortunate way. Unfortunately because this will give Vichy an excuse to line up more closely with the Axis, an excuse which Messrs. Darlan and Laval will use to the full. Marshal Petain has just been told the stumbling block to their pro-Axis activities, and this seizure of Vichy territory will weaken his position, if not his resistance. It may even result in the Darlan faction forcing the Marshal out of office, which they were some days ago reported to have succeeded in doing.

The reason given for this summary action is that radio stations in the islands have been keeping Axis submarines posted on the weather conditions in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the western Atlantic. If so, the British, United States and Canadian authorities had at least as much at stake, and the Free French committee should have acted in accordance with them. Apparently the committee acted solely on its own, without consulting its Allies, and somewhat to their embarrassment.

It is possible, however, to over-estimate the adverse results at Vichy. If Petain has the interests of France at heart he would rather see the islands under Allied control, whatever protests he may have to make to ward off the wrath of the Fuehrer, and if he has sold out to Hitler, it may be as well that the show-down comes in this way as some other. After all, De Gaulle is a Frenchman, and he may sense the reaction in France better than others do.

It will be gratifying to Canadians to know we are making good on the undertaking to supply Russia with 100 tanks before the end of this year. For two reasons. Russia is making good use of tanks. And now that the factories have started their pace they will be able to keep the mechanical elephants clanking down the runways.

It is a small matter, but it signifies much—Prime Minister Churchill's delight in going two eggs for breakfast at the White House. It is a detail that anybody can understand, and throws a flood of light on the meaning of the phrase.

The garrison at Hong Kong, it is said, were forced to capitulate largely because the water supply was cut off. The island came into British possession a hundred years ago. It was then a small pile of rocks, isolated mainly as the hang-off of the mainland. The island meanwhile had grown very rapidly, and the port became one of the busiest in the Pacific. It seemed that the island was not a corresponding development of so primary a need as an ample supply of water, secure against enemy interference.

The commander of United States air forces in Washington and adjoining states has commended the captain and crew of a patrol plane in his command for "courage and attacking a submarine" shortly after the Japanese prize raid on Pearl Harbor. That ought to convince the most placid skeptic that the war is not a mere game. It is the Atlantic Charter in other words. There is not one proposition in the last which Hitler or Mussolini have not violated, deliberately and as a matter of policy. Should they win, whatever kind of world they establish will not be on this pattern, but of exactly contradictory type. Hong Kong: Fall Is Serious

Loss Is Blow to Chinese, Grave Disappointment to All Allied Commands

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The rapid capture of Hong Kong is unquestionably a terrible disappointment. The British expected to hold out for months, in any case, and made plans accordingly. The Chinese were expected to hold out for a considerable time, and that made the prominent Chinese, who by opposing Japan, had had themselves open to the possibility of capture, would have plenty of time to get away.

Rumor has it that the British had a fifth-column war, perfect equipment and even armed instructors by Japanese in Kowloon, and the Chinese port of British defenses.

It does not seem that we have as yet adjusted to the speed of modern war. Hong Kong seems yet another example of "too little and too late."

Chinese Supplies

Once the Japanese acquired naval and air superiority in the Western Pacific, the Chinese and Hong Kong advanced base for the democracies disappeared. They have cleared one flank of their communications, and now they are in a position to attack from the rear.

It is a small matter, but it signifies much—Prime Minister Churchill's delight in going two eggs for breakfast at the White House. It is a detail that anybody can understand, and throws a flood of light on the meaning of the phrase.

It is a small matter, but it signifies much—Prime Minister Churchill's delight in going two eggs for breakfast at the White House. It is a detail that anybody can understand, and throws a flood of light on the meaning of the phrase.

The garrison at Hong Kong, it is said, were forced to capitulate largely because the water supply was cut off. The island came into British possession a hundred years ago. It was then a small pile of rocks, isolated mainly as the hang-off of the mainland. The island meanwhile had grown very rapidly, and the port became one of the busiest in the Pacific. It seemed that the island was not a corresponding development of so primary a need as an ample supply of water, secure against enemy interference.

The commander of United States air forces in Washington and adjoining states has commended the captain and crew of a patrol plane in his command for "courage and attacking a submarine" shortly after the Japanese prize raid on Pearl Harbor. That ought to convince the most placid skeptic that the war is not a mere game. It is the Atlantic Charter in other words. There is not one proposition in the last which Hitler or Mussolini have not violated, deliberately and as a matter of policy. Should they win, whatever kind of world they establish will not be on this pattern, but of exactly contradictory type. Aggression, oppression, monopoly, armament, persecution, treaty-breaking, enslavement of nations and the torture of individuals—these are the "principles" the dictators have adopted, and which they intend to codify into the law of nations.

Another anti-Catholic barrage from Goebbels will be in order—and perhaps a "me too" echo from Gayda.

Manila Next

Hong Kong lost, there now must be expected still more furious fighting in the Philippines and Malaya. A Japanese army estimated at 45,000 men, with hundreds of airplanes and submarines, were employed in the capture of Hong Kong. While they remain in Allied hands, the lines of communication from Japan to the Dutch East Indies are flanked, and these are concentration points for reinforcements.

Allied air, sea and land forces. Japan has ample reserves of men, planes and ships, but the fewer points of attack, the more difficult the task of the Allied forces. The latter—rather than the former—seems likely to be the scene of the heaviest immediate fighting, and to prevent the landing of more United States troops and because the capture of the islands would cut off the enemy's supply lines of the more dangerous threat.

General MacArthur and the forces under his command have been fighting on many fronts, but against terrible odds, and these are likely to be increased now that Hong Kong no longer is a point of attack.

The Gulf Islands

In seizing the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, the Free French forces did the insubstantial thing, but did it in an unfortunate way. Unfortunately because this will give Vichy an excuse to line up more closely with the Axis, an excuse which Messrs. Darlan and Laval will use to the full. Marshal Petain has just been told the stumbling block to their pro-Axis activities, and this seizure of Vichy territory will weaken his position, if not his resistance. It may even result in the Darlan faction forcing the Marshal out of office, which they were some days ago reported to have succeeded in doing.

The reason given for this summary action is that radio stations in the islands have been keeping Axis submarines posted on the weather conditions in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the western Atlantic. If so, the British, United States and Canadian authorities had at least as much at stake, and the Free French committee should have acted in accordance with them. Apparently the committee acted solely on its own, without consulting its Allies, and somewhat to their embarrassment.

It is possible, however, to over-estimate the adverse results at Vichy. If Petain has the interests of France at heart he would rather see the islands under Allied control, whatever protests he may have to make to ward off the wrath of the Fuehrer, and if he has sold out to Hitler, it may be as well that the show-down comes in this way as some other. After all, De Gaulle is a Frenchman, and he may sense the reaction in France better than others do.

War's Industrial Problem

Production of Machines as Important as Training of Adequate Man Power

By GRANT DEXTER

War industry in the United States is now meeting problems which are already serious in Canada. The opinions of leading industrialists in the United States who were present at the United States-Canada conference in Toronto are of practical value to Canada, in all phases of industrial output on a mass-production basis. The United States industrialists have much experience.

The shortage of skilled men is already acute in the United States and it is plain foolishness to think that this shortage can be relieved by bringing women into the work force. Women can easily be trained to operate machines. So can inexperienced men. But the vital link in the chain is in skilled trades which are essential in the making of tools and equipment, and in the operation of delicate precision machines in every phase of munition production. Training for these jobs is a matter of a year or more of intensive practical training.

Practical Training

Apart from skilled men, the greatest shortage is in management, engineering and supervisory skills and here again the only way can only be obtained by fairly long periods of practical training. Young men are much more adaptable than older men. The opinion prevailed that the only way to produce a skilled job say on bombers is perhaps better placed than in the infant.

Raw Materials

The better way to deal with degrees of shortage by allocating raw materials. This also had a beneficial effect on industrialists. The tendency always is to put off until the last minute. Transfer him to work on war and leave him free to consume civilian products. But when allocation of raw materials began to put a crimp in civilian production, industrialists began to see the light.

The United States is going through a very difficult period of reorganization and re-equipping. The war effort is a matter of fighting equipment not only for Allied nations but for the United States itself. Production will not begin until the middle of 1942.

Other highlights were:

There is always a tendency in war to forget about the importance of machines. The war effort is a matter of fighting equipment, not only for Allied nations but for the United States itself. Production will not begin until the middle of 1942.

Liquor Sales

This Year Are Equal To 1940

Liquor sales in the Edmonton window stores were fully equal this Christmas to those of last Christmas, it was reported by J. A. King, chairman of the liquor control board. Certain brands were not available this year, he said, but this did not curtail volume of purchases. He could not say whether these brands still would be unavailable at New Year's.

East Is Taking
Alberta Coal

During the six-month period ending October 31, sales of Alberta coal in Ontario increased 157 per cent above the sales for the same period last year, figures issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade board, revealed Friday.

The board reported that main reason for the marked increase in sales was due to the efforts of J. M. Stewart of the Wartime Prices and Trade board and the fuel division of the federal department of mines and resources.

A 7-page illustrated booklet has been circulated among Ontario householders instructing them in the best method of using the fuel.

A count of Christmas greetings received by citizens of Edmonton and delivered by the four telegraph services—C.N.R., C.P.R., N.A.R. and the government, reveals that more than 5,000 messages were received here from all parts of the world except enemy territory.

This figure does not come near setting a new record for Valentine messages, one of the officials stated.

Over 20 busy each, were employed by the C.N.R. and C.P.R. to attend to deliveries to the holiday.

Recent grades of Alberta coal. This year, 123,944 tons were sold during the six-month period, compared to sales amounting to 16,627 tons last year.

Science Subject Lesson-Sermon

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at all Christian Science Churches on Sunday. The Golden Text is Matthew 18:4. One of the Scriptural citations is "Hail the Comforter, who in the Holy Ghost whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatever I have said unto you" (John 14:26). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is "In the words of St. John, 'He shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever.' This Comforter I understand to be Divine Science" (p. 35).

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By REV. S. G. WEST, R.A., L.Th.
Rector, Locum Tenens of Christ Church

The Mirth of God

WE ARE used to hearing about the righteousness of God, of the wrath of God and other of His attributes, but not so much about His mirth. This season shortly after Christmas, when His wrath, righteousness and justice are obvious truths to all who follow the daily news, it seems that it is very easy to forget His mirth, especially as, by reason of our imperfect nature, we can glimpse but little of it.

We have been thinking of Christmas at the time when the very heavens rejoiced with angels joy——and suddenly there was with the angel multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying—Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth peace, goodwill towards men.

We have been thinking too of the divine promise to Zacharias regarding St. John the Baptist——and that shall have joy and gladness, and many shall rejoice at his birth. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord. He shall be called the Son of the Highest.

The mirth of God must be immense as He is immense. Our own little mirth at times can be heard only how much more rich and deep must be the divine mirth which we so vaguely see, happily sense at Christmas. One imaginative man has suggested reverently that thunder is symbolic of the laughter of God.

In these grim times when we look around on a world torn by war and by the sins of mankind, by bad news of this kind and that one time and another time that we hear of us, mirth may seem irrelevant and almost blasphemous. The Christian faith does not lend, nor ever has lent, any support to this view.

—when these things begin to come to pass, then, LOOK UP, and lift up your heads: for your redemption draweth nigh. The little people of Britain learned the truth when they learned to laugh at the screaming, awful truth that came to them in the night of the Blitz. They were careless laughter, but sprang from an inward happiness that the enemy was engaged and that once again they were on firm ground, no longer were they being forced to compromise with brutal wrong, and in their exultation, reaching through God Friday to rejoice that they had removed the hope of the Christian Gospel to meet "The hairy and red-skinned Goliath."

The spirit life is a spiritual eye, the phrase "peace on earth, goodwill towards men," that song of divine joy. Let him, there is more peace in many hearts than at the time of Munich or the war in Spain; there is more good news at the time of the Wall Street crash; it may well be true that there is more goodwill through suffering in Germany than ever before. Certainly I have never seen less snobbishness and false pride in Canada than at this day. If once you recognize the Christian truth, that this world is not an end of things, but a beginning, that death itself has been swallowed up in victory, then you too can share in the mirth of God.

Many who read this will have seen the film, "Meet John Doe," Frank Capra in it did not think of anything new, but of something as old as Christmas—briefly that we must learn to keep up the best in the Christmas spirit all the year round.

At present we find much too great a strain upon us. We may try to prolong it artificially out of a bottle, with resultant "hangovers."

You will remember that the buoyancy of the early disciples was attributed by some people to too much wine. I wonder that. They had drunk from the eternal spring of the mirth of God, the truth embodied in the service of the Saviour of the World. Wherefore, LOOK UP.

Gallant Stand Of Hong Kong Force Stimulates Edmonton Drive For Men

Seventeen active army recruits have been obtained by soldiers of the Edmonton garrison while on their regular five-day Christmas leave, according to Lt. Col. Alan H. Elliott, officer commanding No. 13A District Depot. "We are well pleased with this result," he said.

The policy of granting an extra day's leave to active army soldiers for each new recruit obtained was adopted by national defence department headquarters. A maximum of three days extra leave is possible under this plan.

Officials had expected that there would be very little activity over the holiday period. But several men showed up Friday and with 14 more Saturday, indications are that the force isn't going to wait until after the New Year to get in there and prepare to have their comrades at home.

New Zealand Youths Train For His Majesty's Fleet

RIFLE DRILLS AND MARCHING, AN IMPORTANT PHASE, ASHORE.

"ALL ASHORE" AND THE BOAT TOO.

GAS MAY YET COME INTO PLAY, SO ...

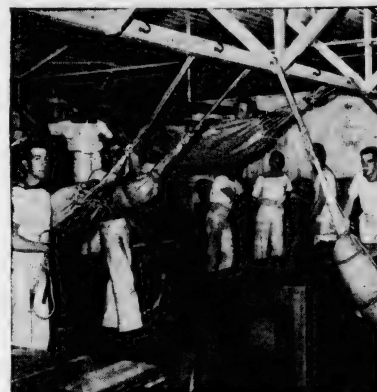

Though the war suddenly arrived at New Zealand's "front door," due to Japan's cowardly assault on American possessions while peace negotiations were under way in Washington, D.C., Britain's tiny South Pacific outpost will be ready and waiting, if and when the Japs attempt any invasion of her coasts. New Zealand, in addition to sending materials and men to the European front, has been training her young men on a large scale at home for their eventual role in the conflict. Cameron recently visited the training ship Tamaki, schoolship for New Zealand's warriors of the sea.

A gigantic procession of home guards and civil defence units paraded through London, England, as paper salvage "housewives" gathered waste for war. A scrap of paper started the war, is slogan.

Will Japs Seek Bases On Aleutian Islands?

Upper map shows the proximity of the Aleutian islands, part of the continental United States, to Japan proper—2,208 miles. Fear has been expressed that the Japanese may invade these islands, seeking to establish bases there as a threat to Canada and their possessions. Inset map: Lower Right, gives a close-up of Alaska and the Aleutians, showing U.S. air bases at Dutch Harbor and Sitka.

Russ Will "Polish Off" Nazis

The hard-hitting Russian armies will "polish off" the Nazis, declared Maxim Litvinoff, new ambassador, in Washington. He is pictured in the Soviet Embassy, where, although ex-courtesy Japan, he emphasized that Russia will continue its driving pursuit of the Nazi invaders rather than open an eastern front against the Japs.

Organize Salvage

Andrew Sheinie G. H. Hummel H. N. M. Stanbury
The regional salvage organizers shown above will help direct the national campaign launched by the Department of National War Services. All were given a special commission in Ottawa before taking over their duties. Mr. Sheinie of Calgary is organizer for the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. Mr. Hummel, of Regina, is organizer for Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and Mr. Stanbury, of Halifax, is organizer for the Maritime provinces.

Another Plane For Allies' Side

Now Fighting Japs

Pictured as they disembarked at a "transit camp" near Singapore, these R.A.F. men are now in action against the Japs. They arrived in the Far East a short time ago to reinforce British forces.
